TORN BY A HYENA

Terrible Fate of an Animal Trainer in England.

MANGLED BY WILD BEASTS

Entering a Cage of Bears and Hyenas, He is Overpowered-Death Follows His Injuries.

Loypon, March 16 -A frightful affair occurred Tuesday in the town of Heddesford, Staffordshire, during a performance of Womble's menagerie The tent was filled with a large crowd of persons from the town and adjoining villages. In the course of the performance Delhi Montano, a negro armed only with a small rawhide, entered a stronglybarred structure containing three im mense bears and a wicked-looking hyena, which growled and showed its fangs as it paced restlessly up and down the narrow confines of its prison. The attendants of the menagerie had at once made efforts to rescue Montano when the shouts of the terrified spectators warned them of the terrible position in which their comrade was placed, but in spite of all the attacks they made on the enraged animals they were unable to get the man's body from the cage for a quar-ter of an hour. When the brutes were finally beaten off and Montane was dragged from the cage he was found to be just alive. He was torn and bruised from head to foot and sovered with blood which flowed from his many wounds. He was enderly conveyed to a hotel near by, and medical assistance was immedistely summoued, but, notwithstanding that everything possible was done to relieve his intense suffering, he gradually sank, and after lingering in great agony for an hour death finally put an end to his misery. There was intense excitement among the witnesses of the affair.
